INTRODUCTION

Weight Loss Surgery, also known as Gastric Sleeve Surgery or Gastrectomy, is a transformative procedure designed to assist individuals in their weight loss journey by reducing the size of the stomach. This minimally invasive surgery involves the removal of a portion of the stomach, creating a smaller "sleeve-like" shape.

Weight Loss Surgery can:

- Significantly reduce stomach capacity
- Aid in weight loss by restricting food intake
- Help alleviate obesity-related health conditions such as type 2 diabetes, hypertension, and sleep apnea

The primary goal of weight Loss Surgery is to provide individuals with a tool to achieve longterm weight loss and improve their health and well-being.

While the procedure is primarily aimed at addressing obesity, it can also serve as a catalyst for positive lifestyle changes and improved overall quality of life.

There are a range of considerations to keep in mind when preparing for Weight Loss Surgery. Your body is unique, so it's only right that your procedure is too.

PLANNING YOUR PROCEDURE

Gastric Sleeve Surgery is a keyhole procedure designed to aid significant weight loss and improve overall health. This transformative surgery involves the removal of approximately 85% of the stomach, leaving a strategically shaped sleeved section.

PRE-SCREENING AND ELIGIBILITY

To ensure safety and optimal results, candidates should have a BMI between 35-50. General medical clearance from a General Practitioner is mandatory. Your Surgeon will evaluate each case individually, and special considerations are made for those with a BMI over 50.

PREPARING FOR SURGERY

A key aspect of preparing for Gastric Sleeve Surgery is dietary adjustment. Clients are advised to reduce calorie intake to 800 calories per day for 1-2 weeks before surgery. Those with sleep apnea must wear a CPAP machine for 1 month before surgery and bring it to Thailand.

POST-SURGERY CARE

The initial phase post-surgery involves a liquid diet for the first 2 days, progressing to a soft diet for 1-2 weeks. After 2 weeks, clients can return to a normal diet but with significantly smaller portions. Follow-up appointments are scheduled at 1 month and 2 months post-surgery via Telehealth.

Our experienced Surgeons will ensure that together, you choose the right treatment plan to meet your surgical goals.
